{theme} Lingerie Bridal Shower

Posted on Jun 18th, 2010 in Best Of

Sometimes, an evening in with the girls, relaxing, sipping cocktails and having fun is all a busy bride-to-be could ask for.

That's why a lingerie bridal shower theme is so popular – and it's quite easy to plan with a little imagination!

Sending the bridal shower guests home with something useful isn't always easy, but we've got two fantastic ideas that fit the lingerie theme to a T.

The first is for larger groups since it is a little less expensive; we found handmade Lingerie Sachets with Lavender Buds by Handmade Happy Ever After on Etsy. They're the perfect little "thank you" and the girls can stick them in their own lingerie drawers at home.

The second idea is for smaller gatherings since it's more pricey than the average party favor ($13.99 each), but it's absolutely worth the investment – the shower guests won't be able to stop raving about it!

The Berry Ball is an ingenious invention that keeps your expensive bras from getting twisted and mangled in the washer. It comes in two sizes (accommodating cup sizes 32A through 38D), as well as in pink, purple or blue.

We had the chance to try a Berry Ball ourselves and can attest to its ability to keep lingerie clean and in better shape. It protects bras (although the set comes with a handy little bag for panties, socks and hosiery, too) from getting warped out of shape and tangled up throughout the wash cycle. The little scrubbing ball you place inside the Berry Ball cleans bra cups from the inside, too.

The Berry Ball is even great for the bride-to-be, since she can protect her newly acquired lingerie from being squashed in the suitcase when she departs for her honeymoon.
